

Selection optimism is universal across families and grows with the validation score

(a) Every family pays the same tax

(b) What a given validation score actually delivers

